

Williams Syndrome

Williams Syndrome is rare. If there are 30 children in each class – we would expect just 1 class out of 600 classes to have a child with Williams Syndrome in it.

Children with Williams Syndrome usually:

- ♥ have a heart condition
- ♥ have more medical appointments
- ♥ find learning more difficult
- ♥ need extra help in class
- ♥ find PE tricky
- ♥ find writing and fastening buttons / laces tricky
- ♥ have sensitive ears and can find loud noises upsetting
- ♥ ask lots of questions if they are worried about something
- ♥ worry if someone is sad

Children with Williams Syndrome always:

- ♥ enjoy happy music
- ♥ have a great memory for faces
- ♥ love it when people are friendly
- ♥ love to be treated with kindness!
